Suspension and Steering Parts

Use KAIZEN Aftermarket, one of the most respected suppliers of high-quality aftermarket parts in the world, to bring safety to your customers and your business. Through our Steering and Suspension department we can offer the most advanced technology available on the market.

Choosing KAIZEN Aftermarket is a simple and straightforward choice, with our Steering and Suspension parts providing the following tangible benefits for drivers:

- Improved fuel economy with optimised weight and shape through finite element techniques
- Original equipment (OE) quality
- Temperature resistant parts that perform in all conditions
- Continuous advancement through outstanding research and development
- Enhanced ride handling and performance with a collection of rubber, metal and hydraulic bushes
- Guaranteed safety improvement

With the most rigorous testing process employed across all of our parts you can be sure that KAIZEN products are the best in the business.

Our own individual testing methods include the following:

- Acoustic measurements to improve driver comfort
- Strength testing to measure durability
- Drive tests
- Assembly technique to examine critical safety features
- Extreme testing process
- Expert training and guidance
